

The Qualitative Methods Master Class Webinar Series

Research Failure: Why it's inevitable, but wasting it is not

Research failures come in all shapes and sizes. Though common, in our quest for career success and legitimacy, it can be challenging to share or even admit to our own research failures.

Join Bailey Sousa and Alex Clark as they share their own failures and take us on a journey through the latest research and theory on why and how failure happens in qualitative and mixed methods research studies. Consider how we can all work to be open about our research failures and better ensure that while research failures are inevitable, wasting them is not.
